European Space Camp

The European Space Camp is a summer camp taking place from 2nd to 9th August 2020 in Andøya Rocket Range, in Norway. High-school students worldwide, from 17 to 20 years old, interested in space and science, and having a background in physics and mathematics are invited to apply. They will spend a week doing technical experiments involved in a rocket campaign, working as real rocket scientists, learning how to exploit knowledge they already possess, and broadening their understanding of applied science.
